TO MARK LUSITANIA'S GRAVE

This is a model of a statue proposed to mark the spot off the Irish Coast where the Lusitania was torpedoed. It is by Georges DuBois, noted French sculptor. Frenchmen who propose the monument would have it so on a floating raft representing wreckage and anchored at the scene of the disaster. Cables to shore would permit its illumination at night.

A Grave Attack

BELFAST, Jan. 29.—What is regarded as a grave development in connection with the resumption of work by expelled Catholic employees in Belfast was an attack to-night on James McCullough who returned to work in one of the shipyards to-day. Two shots were fired at him as he was leaving Queen's Island. One bullet lodged in his shoulder and he was struck in the head by a bolt.

PRINCE GRINS AND BEARS IT

The latest picture of the Prince of Wales in India, shows him trying to act as though he likes native music furnished by the wealthy Gaekwar of Baroda.

OUR POPULAR PRINCE

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Reuters' correspondent with the Prince of Wales cables from Hyderabad, India, to-day that the Prince departed from here on the very crest of a wave of popularity which swept irresistibly over the place. Ever since the arrival of His Royal Highness the great city has had a continuous holiday, one of the palpable aims of the masses being to see the Prince as many times as possible. One of the native ruler's leading ministers told the correspondent that he attributed the enthusiasm of the populace wholly to the Prince's personal powers of appeal.

No Matter What Is Done People of Russia Will Die by Millions

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, who is closely identified with Russian relief work, expressed himself in a pessimistic manner to-day regarding the famine in Russia. He said, "It is too late to save the people of Russia. Whatever is done they will die by the millions. Live stock is dying everywhere and if nothing is done there will presently be none remaining. Twenty American dollars will keep a horse alive, but a human life can be saved for fifteen shillings. That sum would keep a man alive until the new harvest."

The Egyptian Question

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The Government's statement outlining the basis on which it would be willing to terminate the Egyptian protectorate and recognize Egypt's sovereign state, seemingly has done nothing to remove opposition in quarters where its past proposals have been condemned. The Daily News terms the offer a "monument to the impotent timidity of a divided cabinet." The Westminster Gazette declares it is impossible that any Egyptian Nationalist will accept a proposal which gives Great Britain the right to garison the principal towns of Egypt.

Jute Mills in India

CALCUTTA, Jan. 30.—Four thousand workers in the Standard Jute Mills at Titteghur, the Inverness of Calcutta, engaged in a riot on Thursday and were only quelled by the police after numerous casualties had been inflicted. The trouble arose when the workers demanded the release of two comrades charged with assaulting the manager of the works, which was refused.

Stormy on Atlantic

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The vanguard of forty vessels, among them 19 passenger ships, which have been battling with the gales of the Atlantic since Sunday, arrived here to-day and reported the stormiest trip in their experience.

Anti-Trust Laws

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Twenty corporations and twenty-eight individuals engaged in the heating and ventilating branches of the building industry were indicted by the Supreme Court and jury for violation of Anti-Trust Laws.

CHAPTER XV.

"I Wonder Who She Is."

The fifth of March was a quiet, stormy day, and when evening came our young architect had just settled himself before a cheerful fire, his feet incased in a comfortable pair of slippers, and an entertaining book in his hand, which he was going to read aloud to his Aunt Audrey and Mrs. Allen, when the door-bell rang an imperative peal.

A few moments later the little maid of all work ushered Mr. Mason, the builder, into see Mr. Waldemar.
He entered with a quick, elastic tread, went straight up to Rich; and seized both hands in his.

"We've got it," was all he said,
but his face was full of triumph.
"The contract, do you mean?" Rich questioned, growing suddenly pale.
"That's exactly what I mean, and I believe I am more glad on your account than my own," responded Mr.
Mason, heartily. "The parties were delighted with specifications or price,
and the work is to be begun on the third of April."

Rich sat down half-dazed, and feeling decidedly weak and trembling.
He had not known until that moment
how much his heart had been set upon the contract.

He had not even asked his visitor to be seated, nor introduced him to the ladies—who were regarding them both with astonishment—he had been so taken by surprise.

But he recovered himself after a moment.

"I beg your pardon," he said, raising again and smiling; "I believe you have scattered all my wits with your news; allow me to introduce you to my aunt, Miss Waldemar, Mr.
Mason, and Mrs. Allan."

The introduction over, Rich drew a chair forward to the fire for his friend, and then turning to Miss Waldemar, before resuming his own
seat, he said:

"Aunt Audrey, Mr. Mason is a master builder, and we have been negotiating a little business together. I have drawn some plans for him for a block of buildings at Yonkers, and he has secured a contract upon them.
The bargain was that I should receive five hundred dollars if he succeeded. That will do for a first venture, will it not?"

Miss Waldemar looked amazed now.
But she would not allow herself to betray any emotion before a stranger; so after the first shock of surprise had passed she said, quietly:
"I am very glad, Rich," but the look which accompanied the words expressed a whole volume.

Mr. Mason spent the whole evening talking over the matter and appeared very much elated, as the contract would yield him a handsome profit.

When he arose to go, he again
grasped Rich by the hand, saying:
"I feel very grateful to you, young sir, and I predict a brilliant future for you. I believe I should not have secured this contract but for you, and I hope that this our first mutual transaction will not be our last."

"I hope so, too," Rich answered, heartily; and it was not, for he drew plans for him in the future, while the builder sent many people to him, and there was no lack of work for him from that time.

Mr. Remington, too, threw considerable business in his way; work which would have been but a hindrance to him, so that our young friend began to realize quite a handsome sum from his energy and perseverance.

One day in May he went out to Yonkers to see how the buildings

MOTHER, QUICK! GIVE CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP FOR CHILD'S BOWELS

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels.
In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels
and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for were progressing.

Mr. Mason was delighted to see him, and took him through every portion of the buildings with a good deal of pride.

On his way out Rich passed a young man about his own age, or perhaps a little older, who was planning at a bench, and he noticed that he was regarding him every earnestly, and with a disagreeable scowl on his dark, swarthy face.

There was something familiar, too,
about him; he was sure that he had seen him somewhere before, though he could recall neither time or place.

"Who is he?" Rich asked of Mr.
Mason, when they were beyond his hearing.

"His name is John Crouch; he's a surly kind of a fellow, but he's a good carpenter and a smart hand at work. By the way he looks as if he knows you," concluded the builder, glancing back at his employee, who had suspended his work and stood regarding Rich with no friendly look.

"I am very sure I have seen him
before; ;but I cannot place him,"

The Kidneys

The office man and the out-of-work suffer alike from derangements of the kidneys.

Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease soon develops, others suffer from high blood pressure until hardening of the arteries sets in.

In order to forestall painful and fatal diseases prompt action should be taken at the first sign of trouble.

Mr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirk-
wood, Inverness county, N.S., writes:

"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to all suffering from weak kidneys. I suffered from kidney disease for a long time. I may also say that for three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally told of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using a few boxes was completely relieved. I have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with the best results, and never fail to recommend these wonderful remedies."

the young man said, reluctantly.

But he forgot him entirely after a while, in his interest in the development of the plans over which he had spent so much time and thought,
but when he stepped upon the train
to return to New York that evening,
he almost stumbled against the same
young Carpenter, who was just leaving one car to go into another.

"Curse you!" he was sure he heard him mutter, under his breath.

"I beg your pardon," Rich said, courteously; "I did not see you in season to step out of the way."

The fellow made no reply beyond a disagreeable scowl, and pushed ahead into the smoking-car, while Rich, forgetting the circumstance, or thinking nothing of it, save that he had run against a coarse, ill-mannered boor, settled himself comfortably in a seat and began to read his evening paper.

But he was destined to see another face that day—one that he could not forget, and which was to haunt him for weeks before he discovered the name of its owner.

Arriving in New York, he sprang lightly from the train and made his way out of the station, softly humming, a tune.

He was in excellent spirits, for Mr.
Mason had been consulting him regarding plans for some Queen Anne cottages that a capitalist wanted to build in the suburbs of Brooklyn, and he had strong hopes of securing the contract if he could get designs to suit.

He passed out upon the street and took an up-town car but after riding a short distance, he suddenly thought of an errand he had promised to do for Miss Waldemar, and alighted before a store on Broadway.

He made his purchase and then concluded that he would walk home,
as he felt like taking the exercise.

He had not proceeded far, however,
before he noticed the slight figure of a girl, clad in a neat dark-brown suit, just a little in advance of him.

Almost unconsciously he slackened his pace and kept behind her, feeling strangely interested in and attracted by her.

His quick eye took in every detail
of her neat, though inexpensive costume, from her simple brown hat to the toe of her small, perfectly fitting kid boot.

She carried a bundle in her arms—
quite a bulky one—and Rich wished he knew her, so that he might relieve her of it; it nettled him that such a pretty girl—he knew, instinctively, that she was pretty, although he had not yet had a glimpse of her face—should be so disagreeably burdened.

He was so intent upon observing
her that he had eyes for nothing else,
and all at once he was startled, and his blood set to boiling with indignation, as a newsboy suddenly flew around a corner, running plump against the girl, nearly throwing her off her feet, and sending her bundle flying out of her arms upon the sidewalk, where the string, with which it was bound, giving way, its contents—the materials for a dress, with spools of silk and thread, whale-bones and buttons—were scattered about in confusion.

Rich's first impulse was to seize the boy by the shoulder, stopping him
short in his mad career.

"What are you about, young man?"
he demanded, "running against people in this way? Have a care over yourself in the future or you will get into trouble."

Administering a slight shake to enforce his reproof, Rich let him go and turned his attention to the unfortunate victim of the encounter.

As he did so, there flashed upon him
the memory of an incident of a somewhat similar character which had occurred when he was a boy, and when he had defended a little girl from the abuse of a low-born bully.

Then in an instant it came to him who the fellow was whom he had seen in the new buildings at Yonkers, and whom he had also encountered upon the train.

"He was that mean-spirited bully as sure as I am alive," he said to

Justice Demands 8%

TIME was when 4% interest was all that investors expected with safety.

Governments borrowed at 8% and less.

Now all that is changed. Governments pay 6% and more. High-class Corporation Securities pay 6% and 8%.

Yet present Government interest rates would have been considered the "low" of "blue sky"
promoters ten years ago.

You see, therefore, there is nothing visionary
or hazardous about a vast hotel enterprise borrowing money at 8% and offering its Convertible Debentures at this rate of interest plus a Common Stock Bonus.

This policy is particularly sound in the case of The Mount Royal Hotel Company, Limited, which will own the largest fireproof hotel in the British Empire.

The Mount Royal Hotel enterprise is timed to reap all the advantages accruing to Montreal as the greatest seaport, the industrial centre, the railroad headquarters, and the pivotal point of all travellers and tourist traffic in Canada.

Consider, too, the list of Directors. You must be impressed by the fact that so able a group of men would never associate themselves with a doubtful enterprise.

Remember, also that the hotel will be operated by the United Hotels Company of America, which has made an outstanding financial success of every hotel they have managed—eighteen in all.

Every man and woman who has money earning only 3% or 4% should consider at once the investment of some of their money in these 8% Convertible Debentures.

These 8% Convertible Debentures at par and interest, carrying a 30% bonus of Common Stock are the choicest security that has been offered in years.

himself, "and he recognized me as soon as he set his eyes upon me."

These thoughts passed through his mind with the rapidity of lightning, and he was astonished to find how little a thing had aroused memories that had long lain dormant.

Then he turned to assist the young girl in recovering her property.

"Will you allow me to help you,
miss?" he asked, politely, and lifting his hat to her as if she were a fashionable belle, instead of a poor sewing-girl, whom he now knew she was.

She lifted her face to him as he spoke, and he thought it the fairest one he had ever seen.

A pair of beautiful blue eyes met ly-shaped brow, upon which rested light waves of rich golden hair. Her complexion was faultless, with a delicious bloom upon either cheek; her nose and ears were like a dainty bit of sculpture; her mouth was a scarlet line of beauty.

She gave a violent start as she looked at him, then grew crimson; while to Rich, as he noticed it, there came a shadowy memory, like some strain

ship honors here next month.

of music heard somewhere in the dim past; but the time and theme it was beyond his power to recall.

"Thank you," she responded, in a low, sweet tone, a shade of sadness stealing over her face. "I do not believe I need to trouble you; I think I have recovered everything," and she began to make up her bundle again
as she spoke.

"I know I could assist you about that," Rich said, as she tried to tie it up, but found the package difficult to manage.

He noticed, too, that her little brown-gloved hands were trembling violently, and he wondered at it, for beyond scattering her work, the clumsy newsboy he knew had done no damage.

Gently taking the bundle from her,
he drew her out of the jostling crowd into a door-way, where he tied it neatly and securely, feeling sure that she would have no further trouble with it even if it should fall again.

"Thank you," she said, and as her deep blue eyes were raised for a moment to him he thought there was a wistful, almost appealing expression in them, "you have taken a great deal of trouble for me."

"No, indeed; it has been a pleasure, I assure you," he said, "and if you are going much further this way
I shall be happy to carry it for you,
as I am bound in the same direction."

"Under The Gaslight"

A GREAT SUCCESS.

Before a crowded hall the B. I. S. scored another big success in reproducing "Under the Gaslight," a play which brings a "whiff of the past" and was enjoyed by many who remembered when it was played here before. There are new times and new plays to-day, but the thrilling climaxes of the older plays still stir one up to a pitch of enthusiasm not often reached nowadays.

For instance, the audience could scarce forbear to cheer during the exciting moments when Snorkey (Mr. P. F. Moore) is being tied to the rails just as the whistle and roar of an approaching train are heard, by Byke (Mr. P. J. Grace), the heroine (Miss McCarthy) doing realistic work in chopping her way out of the freight shed and rescuing the bold Snorkey just in time, an actual train flying past a second after. There was not a hitch in this scene and it aroused the enthusiastic applause of the audience.

Another outstanding scene was on Pier 39, where one could see the waves moving, and a boat in action. The jollification on the wharf was most enjoyable. Mr. Percy Jardine manipulated an accordion with great skill and the dance of the boys on the wharf was true to life.

These two scenes alone make the play worth going to see.

The first act perhaps did not go with the "move" one would expect, but the following acts more than make up for this.

Miss McCarthy makes a graceful and self-possessed heroine, Miss Angela McGrath plays her part with faithfulness and Molly Horan is good as old Judas, also Miss Ryan as a society swell.

Of the gentlemen, we thought that the honours went to Mr. P. J. Grace as Byke, a villain and an accomplished one at that. His enunciation was always good, his attitudes and make-up, especially good, and altogether the characterization was one well done.

Captain J. O'Grady as usual did well as the Hero.

Mr. P. F. Moore as Snorkey was a fine character as a guardian angel over all his friends. Mr. Percy Jardine and Master Jim Bradshaw were newboys to the life, and their specialties were splendid.

The C. C. C. Band was present and rendered an enjoyable program between the acts. Miss Angela McGrath's monologue also proving her ability as an elocutionist and Miss Mary McCarthy gave some well-received songs.

Tickets have been all sold for the performances of to-night and Wednesday, and in view of this Mr. W. J. Higgins announced that another performance would be given on Thursday night, when it is sure that another crowded house will result.

The following are the characters taken in the play:—Ray Trafford, Capt. J. J. O'Grady; Pearl Courtland, Miss Angela McGrath; Martin, Mr. Geo. Jackman; Laura Courtland, Miss Mary McCarthy; Snorkey, Mr. P. F. Moore; Byke, Mr. Patrick Grace; Mrs. Van Dam, Miss Anna Murphy; Bubbles, Miss Eileen Kielly; DeMilt, Mr. G. Edens; Sue Earlie, Miss Hil-dred O'Reilly; De Vere, Mr. Frank Connolly; Anita, Miss Alice Galway; Peach Blossom, Miss Gertrude Ryan; Old Judas, Miss Molly Horan; Bermudas, Mr. Percy Jardine; Peanuts, Master Jimmy Bradshaw; Justice Dowling, Mr. J. Gordon Muir; Police Officer, Mr. Richard Nursa; Snooks, the Lawyer, Mr. Eddie Phelan; Rutherford, Mr. M. McDonald; Sam, Mr. Gerard Edens; Pete, Master Basil Hutton; Steve, Master Willie Hand; Signal Man, Mr. Max Channing.

The stage management was in the capable hands of Mr. Bert Channing.

Efforts Necessary To Help Farmers Unable to Meet Interest Charges
on Mortgages

WINNIPEG, Jan. 29.—In an effort to protect the farmers who because of financial stringency are unable to meet interest payments on mortgages, the Manitoba Government has made informal representatives to several companies handling large business in the Province with a view to preventing foreclosures. Individual cases were not dealt with, but it was pointed out that foreclosures at this time would not be in the best interest of all concerned. Co-operation between Government and Companies would be arranged, Cabinet Ministers said.

NINETY-SEVEN YEARS OLD

MR. JOHN OGILVY

John Ogilvy, one of the outstanding figures in the history of Montreal during the past century, attained his ninety-seventh birthday Jan. 18.

Most of those who started the century with him have long since passed on, but some of the host of friends whom he has made in a long and honorable career visited him at his home, 223 Stanley street to congratulate him on reaching a ripe and venerable old age.

The preparations for Mr. Ogilvy's birthday celebration he entered into wholeheartedly, drawing up a long list of the friends whom he wished to be invited. Unfortunately an indisposition from which he has been suffering the last few days and failing eyesight made a formal party of the kind enjoyed last year when his residence was crowded to the doors with friends who thronged to see him was too tiring for him this year, but all day he received succession of callers.

At 97 he is also an inveterate smoker, upsetting all pet theories on longevity by smoking just as many cigars and pipes as he likes. Like the good sportsman he has been—he was in his day a famous shot and had many a bag of woodcock—he has a fondness for game and enjoys a bird for his dinner still, for his appetite is famous and would be envied by many a millionaire of fifty.

In religion Mr. Ogilvy is Scottish Episcopalian.

In 1842 Mr. Ogilvy entered the warehouse of John G. McKenzie.

The Cincinnati Times-Star, Friday, January 13th, 1921.

An Associated Press Despatch from St. John's, Nfld., giving the details of an extraordinary accident which occurred to a passenger when the Reid Newfoundland Railway express was struck by a snow-slide, has been received here with keen interest and appreciation. According to the despatch, Miss Margaret Matthews, a school teacher, was hurled through a double-paned window, landing in a snow bank with her hair bobbed and no other injury, thus introducing the prevailing New York coiffure into Newfoundland.

Nick Johnstone passenger and publicity agent of the Reid Newfoundland Company railway, when he was in New York last summer, related an extraordinary incident which had occurred on one of the railway's trains. A large salmon, just arrived from the set at the headwaters of the St. John's river, was caught by an angler at the very moment when the Reid Newfoundland Seaboard Express was about to leave its inland terminus. At the angler's request, the trainmen placed the salmon in the water tank attached to the engine, so that it might reach St. John's alive and fresh. When the tank was opened on the ocean pier, where the Seaboard Express discharges its passengers, the salmon swam to the surface and offered the conductor a return ticket, which it held in its mouth.

Mr. Johnstone is now in Newfoundland.

Vanity and Spectacles

"The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eye-strain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, anxious, tired, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the point of view of appearance, than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of face to which glasses just add the finishing touch."

Baffin Land Tragedy

The publication by us on Saturday last of the photograph of the late Robert S. Janes has aroused much interest in the tragedy which became known two years ago, when the news of his death reached his relatives here. He left here in 1916 on a two year cruise in Baffin Land furring, and departed from St. John's in the S. S. "Kite" with one of his sons, who returned in the steamer after landing Mr. Janes. Mr. Janes located at Pond's Inlet, built his shack, made himself comfortable and began to trade with the natives. Contrary to an arrangement made with a party in St. John's, the "Kite" was not sent down at the expiration of the two years, so that Mr. Janes could not return and was cut off completely, and though offered a passage home by Capt. Munn of the S. S. "Albert" he would not accept, not being able to make a bargain about the arrangements for his passage.

Mr. Janes, so the story goes, then resolved to try and reach civilization overland, but found that a narrow gulf which he thought would be frozen over was open, and had to retreat. According to the story of a few years ago, it was while returning on his trip to Pond's Inlet that he met his death.

The Canadian Government have been taking the matter up energetically and last year we understand that an investigating party was sent down to Baffin Land to obtain evidence about the case and if possible to locate the native who was supposed to have committed the deed. This party has not been able to report, nor will it be able to return until next summer. Capt. Munn brought home Mr. Janes' effects, furs, etc., last year.

The full story is one of the most thrilling ever penned and much interest will be taken in the result of the Canadian enquiry.

Elliston Still Backs Coaker Because He Works For Fishermen

Elliston,
Jan. 24, 1922

Dear Mr. Editor:

Just a few lines in your esteemed paper to let the Advocate readers know that the F. P. U. is as strong as ever at Elliston. We had our Union annual parade a short while ago, which was a great success and an eye-opener to those who would like to see the Union smashed.

The country has gone through hard times, but we believe they would have been much worse if the fishermen had not been protected and encouraged as much as possible by our public representatives and, particularly by Mr. Coaker.

It will be admitted that the price of fish was very low, indeed, last summer, but that was due to the conditions which Tory fiscal policy brought upon us. The regulations gave us the price in 1920 and the fishermen would have reaped the same prices if Tory traitors and newspaper scrawlers and merchant Shylocks had been imprisoned, or deported.

In our opinion, the fishermen should never forget the fact that they have been cruelly cheated regarding the general price of fish this year as compared with last year.

What did the Tory liars tell us when we were getting ten dollars for shore fish and Labrador fishermen were getting eight dollars? Didn't they say it was the "iniquitous regulations" for which they blamed Mr. Coaker. And did they not try to say we would get more if the regulations were off?

Well, I ask every intelligent fishermen, what happened this year when the regulations were lifted?

Did we get ten dollars for our fish? Did we get more than ten dollars?

Speaking for Elliston fishermen, Mr. Editor, we would not have got five dollars but for Mr. Coaker and Port Union. It was Mr. Coaker who came to Elliston and put fish up one dollar on a quintal and cut the price of flour two dollars on a barrel. The time has come when the fishermen realize the serious danger of such rascality as was practised by the Opposition and the Tories. The fishermen must be awake today to support the leader who is trying to place the country's

ARTHUR

Dear Mr. English, I doff my hat to you,
And thank you for your criticism fair,
In this old world of sin and toil and strife,
A shining light like yours is very rare.

You know it all from starting point to close,
And more besides than any other man
Whoever lived in this fair land of ours
Since Cabor first set foot in Newfoundland's

I to your superior judgment bow,
And in sorrow and subjection hide my head,
And swear I will never pen a line again
Until the English king of slang is dead.

Lloyd George and France's famous Clemenceau, Macrossan, Gibbs and Cobb rolled into one
Are intellectual pigmies, and much gray matter lack,
Compared with you, our most illustrious son.

Farewell to you, dear Arthur, king of scribes,
I hope "white" power has not unduly turned your head,
And as our friend in Pepsy's diary has it,
"We talked of divers things and so to bed."

PLANET.

WORK ON BELL ISLAND

The Government have been successful in arranging that work on Bell Island will commence immediately, 1600 men being put on gradually, 600 of whom will be those who live on Bell Island and 1000 from Conception Bay. Work, however, will be given to those only who absolutely need it and those who have no other means of earning. Major Butler leaves soon for Conception Bay to report on the situation. Those who will get employment must furnish a certificate of necessity from their clergymen, and upon the production of this, tickets for employment will be issued by the Unemployment Bureau.

This scheme must be carried out as it will be useless for men to proceed to Bell Island without this ticket from the Bureau.

In this way it is hoped to relieve the labor situation and we congratulate the Prime Minister upon the result of his efforts.

staple industry on a working basis that will ensure a safe livelihood to the men who have to prosecute it.

Just a word before concluding, Mr. Editor.

There is a lot of talk about the Humber proposition. We are sure the Government will make the best deal possible. Every consideration must be given to the country's welfare, but we need development and advancement and we need new industries and more labour. That is what the workingman wants.

Wishing the Union and the Advocate every success.

With the Rotary Club

Major Cotton was the speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon to-day and gave an interesting account of his work since coming here last year to engage in commercial aerial work.

Amongst the guests at the luncheon besides Major Cotton, were Capt. V. S. Bennett, Lt.-Col. Macpherson, C.M.G., A. B. Perlin (Telegram) and R. T. Joy, (Advocate).

Mr. Harold Macpherson was chairman for the day and introduced the speaker in a brief address.

Major Cotton expressed his faith in the possibilities of aerial work in Newfoundland and believed that for mail services, the seal fishery and development and survey of timber resources, no better means could be evolved than the airplane.

He told of the insurmountable difficulties he had to contend with last winter and how they had since been overcome. The skids now used on the machines was perfected by the aid of Capt. Bennett and these have been the means of overcoming one of the greatest of their difficulties.

The attempt to reach Halifax and the incidentals connected therewith cost $2000 for which no returns were got, but in spite of that Major Cotton thinks he will have a shot at the seal fishery to show that in this branch of work there are great possibilities.

The address was listened to with a great deal of interest by both rotarians and guests.

ROME, Jan. 31.—Interest in the choice of a successor to Pope Benedict is increasing as time draws nearer for assembling of sacred conclave. Cardinal Laurenti, Secretary of Congregation of Propaganda, although raised to the purple only last year, is understood to be favorite by at least thirty members of the Sacred College who believe in rapprochement with the Italian Government. The names of Cardinal Ratti, Archbishop of Milan, and Cardinal Maffi, Archbishop of Pisa, are not so often heard now.

LITTLE RIVER COAL MINES WILL BE BIG PROPOSITION

Newfoundland Can Be Supplied From Own Deposits

H. Ollerhead, President and General Manager of the Little River Coal Mining Co., Ltd., of St. George's, is at present in the city with his sales manager, Murdoch McLeod, and the Advocate to-day heard from him some particulars of what promises to be a big proposition.

Mr. Ollerhead said that when the Little River coal mines get started St. John's, and in fact the whole of Newfoundland, will be supplied with coal for $8 per ton.

The deposits of the company have been held by the original owners since 1903 and they have paid the rentals on them during that period. This is the first time that a company has been organized to work the mines and they have every confidence in the ultimate outcome of the venture.

The Little River coal properties have nothing to do with the St. George's Coal Fields, altho they are in the same district.

One of the big advantages possessed by the Little River deposits is that the initial cost of inaugurating shipping facilities will be practically nil because the mines are, in the first place, only two and a half miles from the railway while they are also immediately adjacent to the splendid ship ping point of North West Cove from where shipments can be made practically all the year around and when operations begin the Government will be asked to co-operate in making North West Cove a safer and better harbor for shipping.

RICH OUTCROPPINGS.

The property has been examined by competent mining engineers and geologists such as H. Norman of Toronto. Mr. McQuarrie, who reports seams of from 3 to 7 feet and their expert opinion is that there are millions of tons of coal there. There are outcroppings which run for some distance from the cliff out under the sea and Mr. Ollerhead says that it is believed these deposits are a continuation of those of Cape Breton. Besides smaller seams of coal appear all along the face of the cliff which experts call feeders to the main body of coal.

This coal has been tested and analyzed by Thomas Hays & Sons of Toronto and found to be of better quality than either Cape Breton or Crib's Nest Coal.

A GREAT BUNKERING CENTRE.

The shipping port of the Little River mines will be a great bunkering centre for ships plying in the St. Lawrence trade. By calling at this point for bunkers these steamers will save a run of over 200 miles. It will be therefore, readily seen what great possibilities there are of Newfoundland having a producing coal mine.

At present we are importing $1,000,000 worth of coal annually and if this coal could be mined in Newfoundland, that money could be kept right in the country and much of it spent in local labor.

The company will start sinking a shaft in April and arrangements are now being made for getting a diamond drill on the ground.

Some shares are being placed on the local market, the present value of which ($10 per share) Mr. Ollerhead says will be doubled and even trebled in a very few years. The prospectus of the company appears in another column in this issue.

Railway Guilty Because Of Ill-Ventilated Carriage

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The India office to-night published the report of the committee appointed to investigate the death of sixty-four Moplahs in a railway carriage on November 19 in the Madras Presidency, India. The investigating committee holds the main responsibility rests with the railway company and its local traffic inspector for failure to properly ventilate the carriage. The committee finds that death was due to asphyxiation, owing to insufficient ventilation, and says similar vans were used to convey more than 2500 prisoners without mishap, but that this van had had gauze covers on the windows which were choked with paint. The local police sergeant was found guilty of negligence in failing to note the condition of the prisoners on the way.

Splendid Parade H.N.S. At Marystown

Marystown, Jan. 21st, 1922.
Editor Evening Advocate.

Dear Sir, I suppose a few words from this part of the country may interest some of your readers. We are having a very mild winter with very little frost or snow and as much as we like this kind of weather, everybody would be better pleased if we had a little more snow, as we find it very hard to get sufficient firewood to keep the home fires burning. The holiday season is over and notwithstanding the fact that it rained every other day some people were under the impression that we had a very dry Christmas. The school teachers are back after spending Xmas at their homes, and school reopened last week and both teachers and pupils have settled down to hard work, studying for the different grades of higher education. It is too bad that the Council of Higher Education were compelled to double the entrance fee this year and coming as it does in mid-winter, it is a great hardship on a lot of poor fishermen who have two or three children entering for the grade and in some cases the fees are prohibitive. A lot can be said for and against Higher Education, but a lot of people are of the opinion that it should not be a burden on the fishermen, and labouring classes of the country.

The Holy Name Society here held a parade on January 2nd, and it proved a great success. The Society met at the hall at 2 p.m. where ranks were formed and headed by Professor Penny's Band which came from Burin for the occasion, marched down the north side, as far as the Trading Co's wharf where they were taken in motor boat to the southside, where the parade was continued to the ferry wharf, and thence to their hall. During the parade the band played some popular airs stirring airs which were much appreciated by the people. It was certainly an edifying sight to see so many men banded together for the sole purpose of honouring the Holy Name of Jesus, and to do all in their power to stop blasphemy. At night a grand-dance and dance was held in St. Gabriel's Hall and was attended by a very large number of people. They were served by the lady friends of the Society, and a most enjoyable night was spent, and a very substantial sum realized which was donated towards the Church Fund. The music was furnished by Professor Penny's orchestra and was all that could be desired. Great credit is due the Committee in charge especially the popular energetic President, J. T. Fitzpatrick, also the Marshalls John J. Farrell, P. Leonard, P. Baker, and Hugh Reddy. Thank you in anticipation of space. I remain,

Yours truly,

Boys and Girls

The weight is of great importance in determining the health of a child. Physicians and experts have fixed a scale to determine what is normal weight and I think it is something that every young mother should know.

At birth a baby should weigh six and a quarter pounds, at one week six and three quarter pounds, at ten to fourteen days seven and a quarter pounds, at one month eight and a quarter, at two months ten and a half, and at three months twelve months.

At four months the baby should weigh thirteen and a half pounds, at five months fourteen and a half and at six months fifteen and a half. At seven months sixteen and a half pounds is about right, at eight months seventeen and a quarter pounds and at nine months eighteen pounds. The gain for each week in the third three months is about three ounces a week.

At ten months a baby should weigh eighteen and three quarters pounds at eleven months nineteen and a half, and at twenty months twenty pounds. After that the gain should be about five pounds a year up to the eleventh year.

THE MARRIAGE OF THE SPRUCE

Said the spruce to the new fallen snow, "Be my wedding gown!" But the little winds whispered, "Lo! We will shake the snow down!"

Said the spruce to the dancing rain, "Be my silver-shod feet!" But the little winds, coming again, Turned the rain to sleet.

Said the spruce to the icicles, "You are my wedding veil." But the sun filtered, laughing through, And the bride turned pale.

For the sun was the bridegroom who came With a ring of gold, And his love was a naked flame— As the winds had foretold.

American Comment On Princess Mary's Choice

"A Delectable, Respectable Middle-Aged Landowner."

NEW YORK.—The New York press displays considerable interest in the announcement of the engagement of Princess Mary to Viscount Lascelles. The Tribune says editorially:

"Only daughters are privileged to ave their way. The Princess Mary of England has given her heart to Viscount Lascelles, and her father and mother, without majestic flourish, have announced 'with the greatest pleasure' their consent to the betrothal. An English girl, whose parents happen to be king and queen, is to marry an Englishman, who has proved his qualities and is from all accounts a downright good fellow.

"It is not surprising that the engagement is popular with the English people. And there must be rejoicing at Buckingham Palace that the daughter of the house is not for reasons of statecraft to be the consort of some alien princeling, one of the few surviving relics of royalty.

"Princess Mary's eldest brother, unless he has kept an important secret to himself, has not yet made his choice. The most eligible of young men will disappoint hopes freely expressed, if he does not find one of his own country-women well worth the winning. But just now the Prince of Wales, homesick, perhaps for a sight of blue eyes, is busy trying to make friends with the dark, unfathomable folk of India. And it is hard to imagine anyone, Hindu, Sikh, Parsee or what you will, not liking the prince personally. If he could only hobnob with Gandhi, that remarkable psychologist who has willed India to passive resistance—'non-cooperation'—might suffer a change of heart in spite of himself.

"Be that as it may, when the prince is safe home from his worrisome tour of the East it will be no great surprise should there be an announcement similar to that just made."

The Times concludes a lengthy editorial with the following: The marriage of the Princess 'Pat' of Connaught, the most popular of princesses, to gallant Alexander Ramsay, son of the Earl of Dalhousie, was warmly approved by the British people. Now it is the Princess Mary's turn. She marries one of those patriots for whom the English have a fondness always, the wild, roaring blade in his hot youth, a dauntless soldier afterward, a very delectable, highly respectable middle-aged landowner, now. Besides his broad Yorkshire acres, he had the luck to inherit $13,500,000 from a great uncle, a notorious absentee Irish landlord. Still, money is good to the man it is left to, no matter who leaves it. At the end of the Napoleonic wars, some Englishmen, sick of England's allies asked cynically: 'How many kings can pay a 10 per cent income tax? The future husband of this daughter of kings is likely to pay a good deal higher rate than that as long as he lives. One may now say that a rich Englishman belongs to the poorer classes.

"Still, if worse comes to worst, the Princess can make a living. She is a trained nurse. She can teach athletics or the modern languages, or do needle work. It seems probable that henceforth English princesses and princes will marry British subjects. The pettiest Austrian archduke will shudder at these misalliances. Charles Hapsburg over his Madeira will thank Heaven that whatever his misfortune, he never committed a sin against his ancestors like that."

Heath Hints.

We eat for strength and warmth, says Nurse. So all articles of food have these elements, carbon to warm and nitrogen to strengthen. Butter, sugar, oils and fats of all kinds are almost all carbon and all bread and grains are made of carbon.

Meats, fish of all kinds abound in nitrogen. Food which has most nitrogen is most nourishing. Butter has 83 per cent of carbon and no nitrogen while an egg has no carbon and twenty per cent of nitrogen. Bread contains one part of nitrogen and eight parts of carbon, while milk contains two parts of carbon and one of nitrogen.

It is seen that most articles of food have more carbon or warmth producing qualities than nitrogen or strength. A sedentary person requires, in round numbers, about one pound of food a day, while a physical laborer needs two pounds. Persons living indoors need not eat more than half as much as those who work hard out of doors. Less warming food should be eaten in warm weather than in cold.

THE FEILDIAINS ARE AGAIN VICTORIOUS

SAINTS MADE POOR SHOWING IN LAST EVENING'S GAME

SCORE WAS 7 to 2

The Feildians won their second victory last evening in a game with the Saints in which the latter were all but blanked.

The attendance was over 2,000 and there was no let-up in the enthusiasm displayed by the supporters of both teams.

The game could not by any stretch of imagination be called a good one for both teams showed considerable weakness while slashing was very much in evidence.

FIRST PERIOD.

The Saints took the western goal for a start and no sooner was the puck in play than their territory was invaded and Volsey got a taste of what was to be his portion throughout the night.

Duke Winter drew first blood for the Feildians in less than two minutes from the start when he completed an irresistible dash towards the Scotchmen's net by beating Volsey with a fast shot.

Rendell next made a spectacular run, passing the Saints' defence but failing to make an effective shot. Munn, who seemed a bit off color, got control of the rubber then but was unable to break through, which was true of many of his later attempts.

Name Members of Expedition to Mount Everest

Dr. Wakefield on Way to England—Dr. Somerville Also An Artist

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The personnel of the expedition which will attempt this year's assault on the forbidden heights of Mount Everest became known to-day and, barring illness or accident to one of the present members, the lists are closed to adventurous mountaineers who sought to join up.

The selection of the party really was a hard task, for the Royal Geographic Committee for those who would like to go outnumbered by scores the possibilities of the expedition. In addition to Brig.-Gen. C. G. Bruce, the party will include Lieutenant-Colonel Arthur Strutt, George Finch, G. L. Mallory, Dr. H. T. Somerville and Dr. A. W. Wakefield.

Mr. Mallory is the only member of

TO SCALE MT. EVEREST

Dr. Wakefield of Lake McCantic who has sailed for England to join the expedition that hopes to ascend the highest mountain in the world this coming summer.

last year's party who is going out again, despite the fact that he reported to the Royal Geographic that although it is among human possibilities that the summit could be reached, he believed the chances fifty to one against it.

Dr. Wakefield, a Canadian, now on his way to England, from his home in Sherbrooke, Que., has had much experience climbing the Rockies.

This year's expedition is taking two men who are doctors as well as mountaineers so that the party, even when split up, may have the advantage of medical attention.

Dr. Somerville is also an artist and to him will be entrusted the task of taking the official pictures.

Playing well together, the Feildians again brought the disc up the ice and Payne, with a neat shot, netted No. 2. Another dash towards the Feildians' net followed and two shots in quick succession were aimed at Nix's stronghold, but he was ready for them and cleared both.

Payne was, at this juncture, sent to the box for a minute and Munn again getting control sent in a high one. Between slashing and tripping the puck was whisked back and forth, both teams trying desperately for an opening and the many shots were tried, either went wide of the goals or were so weak as to be easy handling for the net tenders.

Rendell was the second offender to catch the lynx eye of the 'ref' and was put off for a minute. For a time Robertson came back with some of his old style and literally played around the Feildians' forwards but the defence were able to mar his shooting and thus several attempts that deserved success were frustrated.

There ensued an exhibition of shooting, given by the Saints, as rotten as any one could expect to see in a hockey game and a few seconds later Payne again did the needful, scoring No. 3.

Winter of the Feildians and Coultas of the Saints were trotted off to the penalty box in quick succession and Munn, violently revolting against the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune, had a brief but breezy bit with the referee.

Jimmie Alderdice after a clever bit of stick handling—and Jimmie can stick-handle, at that—netted No. 4 for the ex-college lads. Munn made another non-stop flight towards the Feildians' territory failing to score. Robertson repeated both the dash and the failure and Coultas was headed for the penalty pound just as the curtain rang down on the first period.

FEILDIAINS—1; SAINTS—0.

A bombardment of the Feildians' goal marked the opening of the second period, but Hunt was equal to the occasion, working both feet and stick at the same time. Munn again took charge of the rubber and made his way towards the Feildians' defence line but, as per usual, had no support when he most needed it, and Saints scored another last opportunity. Seven minutes from the resumption of play Winter, by a splendid shot, passed Volsey for No. 5.

Time after time Munn brought the puck within shooting distance of his opponents' goal but as repeatedly he shot wild.

The Feildians then took things in their own hands for a time and Payne scored the sixth goal for his team. Coultas and Rendell were put off for checking, while a few minutes later Alderice was also sent to the fence. Before the close of the period Andy Clouston, who had played a hard and steady game all thru, made a fine attempt to break the hoodoo but was unsuccessful.

THIRD PERIOD.

The final clash proved the best of the evening. The Saints, determined not to have a shut-out, scored against them, broke loose and made a desperate onslaught on the Feildians' territory and in the mix-up that ensued, Alderdice was again put off. The Saints sent shot after shot to Hunt who cleared them in great style. Rendell was put off for fouling and a few minutes later Coultas netted the first goal for the Scotsmen. Five minutes afterwards Munn was at last rewarded for his hard work by passing Hunt for No. 2. He repeated the performance after a few intermittent dashes but for some reason the goal was not given. He was sent to the penalty box then for a rest of two minutes. Before the bell announced the end of the game, Winter netted No. 7 for the Feildians.

The Saints undoubtedly gave the Feildians as good as they sent but it was too late when they woke up. The contest closed with the score: Feildians—8; Saints—2.

The line-up was as follows:

FEILDIAINS	Goal	SAINTS
N. Hunt		R. Volsey
R. H. Tait	Left Defence	J. Paterson
H. Rendell	Right Defence	C. Robertson
T. Payne	Centre	J. Field
E. Ewing	Left Wing	H. Coultas
M. G. Winter, Jr.	Right Wing	E. Munn
SPARES
Feildians—A. Rendell, J. Alderdice, Wilson.
Saints—J. Butler, R. Chafe, A. Clouston.

The present standing of the teams is:

Feildians	2	2	0
Saints	2	1	1

Oliver Made New Mark For 1 1-2 Mile in Skiing Race

Keith Oliver, the star skier of the Club de Ski Mont Royal d'Amérique, made a new mark for the mile and a half course around Fletcher's Field on Saturday afternoon, when he did the distance in 7 minutes and 17 seconds. This broke the previous best time, which he made last year, by three seconds. The race was staged by the "tri-color" club, and it brought out a record number of competitors and it also was the occasion for the attendance of a large crowd.

Finishing close behind Oliver was Joseph Beaubien, who showed remarkable speed in equalling the old record of 7 minutes and 20 seconds. Paul

THE LITTLE RIVER COAL MINING CO., LTD.

OF ST. GEORGE'S, NEWFOUNDLAND
Incorporated 1921
Authorized Capital, $5,000,000

Registered Office at St. George's Field.
Branch Office at Sydney, C.B.

This Company has been organized and capitalized for the purpose of developing a mining coal property already acquired. The property is situated at Little River eighteen miles north of Port-aux-Basques in the St. George's Coal Fields District. The location is one of the finest in Newfoundland for a town. It is near the Grand River Valley, where the tourists from nearly all over the world in summer spend their vacation fishing in Grand and Little Rivers. No money has to be expended on clearing the property, for where the shaft will be sunk it is one level stretch of land for a mile without a rock or a tree and especially adapted for construction work. It contains over three square miles and extends from the railroad to the seashore. When shipping piers are completed we can ship either by rail or water, as the water is sixty feet deep and shipping can be carried on all the year round. The distance from sixty feet of water to where the shaft will be sunk is in the vicinity of one thousand feet. Steamers now sailing to Straits of Belle Isle will save over 200 miles by bunkering at our piers and the bunkering trade amounts to a large item. Coal is to day one of the most important of minerals without which all industry stands still.

Dear Sirs:—

Again thanking you for the many courtesies extended and wishing your Company every success,

At the graveside the committal service was conducted by Rev. B. T. Holden, of Congregational Church, of which deceased was a member. The ritual of the Masonic Order was read by Rev. Dr. Feawick, following which the Grand Honors were given and the sprigs of acacia deposited on the grave. The brethren of the S.O.E. read the ritual of that Order.

Rosalind Unab's to Manage Disabled Ship

Is Standing By With Another Steamer.

The steamer "Thyrin" to whose assistance the Rosalind went on Sunday is a Swedish steamship, of 2635 tons gross, bound from Norfolk Va., to Helsingborg, Sweden. The Thyrin left Norfolk on the 15th inst. and was out in the recent boisterous weather.

When first reported the disabled steamer was 282 miles South of Cape Spear and 350 miles from Halifax. According to a message from Capt. Mitchell received by Mr. E. A. Bowring last night, the Rosalind reached the Thyrin yesterday morning, and after some difficulty succeeded in getting tow lines fastened, but owing to the very rough weather, it was impossible to make any progress, and the tow lines did not stand the strain. During the afternoon a north east storm sprang up, and Capt. Mitchell states it is impossible to do anything alone and under these conditions the Rosalind is standing by till the storm moderates.

The S.S. Eastern Cross, has also arrived on the scene, and like the Rosalind is standing by the freighter till the storm subsides.

Two Hundred Dollars Offered.

Important Announcement to Farmers and Fishermen-Farmers.

Enter the competition now open and win one of the splendid cash prizes offered. $300.00 in cash prizes generously donated by a prominent citizen of St. John's, Mr. R. G. Rendell, for the best essays on "The use and value of wood ashes as a fertilizer."

AIM OF COMPETITION.—To promote economy by the use and value of wood ashes as a fertilizer, and to encourage farmers and fishermen-farmers to greater agricultural efforts.

RULES GOVERNING COMPETITION:

- 1) Prizes.—Cash prizes are offered for the best essays on "The use and value of wood ashes as a fertilizer," and are as follows:—1st Prize, $75.00; 2nd Prize, $50.00; 3rd Prize, $35.00; 4th Prize, $20.00; 5th Prize, $15.00; 6th Prize, $10.00. (N.B.—Open only to farmers and fishermen-farmers residing in Newfoundland.)
- 2) Essays.—Essays may be written in ink or type-written and only one side of paper must be used. The length of any one essay is not limited, but should contain not less than 250 words.
- 3) Closing Date.—The closing date for this competition is April 30, 1922, and any essays received after that date will not be considered.

The name and address of the writer may be written at the end of the essay. All envelopes to be addressed: A. J. Bayly, Secretary of Agriculture, St. John's, (which will come in postage free).

We, the Committee, feel sure that this generous offer will be readily responded to by all farmers and fishermen-farmers residing in this Dominion. No great literary ability is necessary to write up in a concise simple manner any one's experience in the use of wood ashes with any available information on its value as a fertilizer.

It is hoped that by a competition of this kind the need for the advancement of agricultural efforts will find expression, in everyone striving to attain that "Mastery for Service" which comes from experience and a willingness to do one's best.

Let us have your experience and information on wood ashes! Are you using it to the best advantage? Mr. R. G. Rendell believes that hundreds of thousands of dollars are lost annually, and he backs his belief in you that much can be saved. Don't delay but sit down now and write your essay and we shall be delighted to award the prizes.

Signed A. J. BAYLY,
